

(ne)stárneme!

Invitation

to the international conference

New Technologies: Opportunity or Challenge for the Aging Population?

March 27– 28, 2019, Prague

Nick Alexander Guldmond
Netherlands

Anu Siren
Finland

Jonathan Rutherford
UK

Using modern technology can undoubtedly improve the lives of the older people. However, technological progress also comes with a dark side, as older people can be at risk of insufficient technological skills and are vulnerable to abuse.

Conference is organized in cooperation with Czech Demographic Society. For discounted registration fee 8 EUR for students Bc. or Mgr. degree of demography at the Faculty of Science of the Charles University or the University of Economics contact Martin Spata at spata@keynote.cz, tel. 608 153 456. Preliminary conference program available at www.engagingprague.com. Working language of the conference is English.

Organized by:

